

CM Secretariat colleagues,

I would like to use this opportunity to make a proposal on how strategic objectives and targets could be structured and communicated to the large multistakeholder audience.

In that regard I would like to refer to the WHO Chemical Road Map as a very useful tool intended to be used as a guidance for countries on how to identify priorities and develop implementation plans.

The Road Map is structured in a way that within a very simple yet very efficient table for each priority potential actions are listed and stakeholders can (for each action) reflect the current situation, potential activities and considerations.

It can be used as a template/reference for the new instrument since this structure can help stakeholders to understand what are their priorities, responsibilities and actions.

Please consider this proposal since road map approach is intended to be a simple and practical tool to identify priorities and plan activities .

With best regards,

Dzejna Milakovic Ramadani, Head of Chemicals Branch, Ministry of Health and Social Welfare, SAICM contact point, Bosnia and Herzegovina
